*Analysis was based on the vegetable seed sales of 14 seed companies with estimates made by the Vegetable Extension staff for three out-of-state companies, for which datum was not available. Exception to this was the celery varietal breakdown, which was furnished through the courtesy of the Florida Fresh Produce Exchange in Orlando. Potato and strawberry varieties, according to their importance, were derived from records of the Extension Service. Some varieties listed were not reported by any company and come from estimates of known local planting.
